Hebel Conspiracy and Attempted cape at Camp Morton-Pive R Killed, Many Others Wounded

Last night, during a heavy thunder storm, a number of rebel prisoners sendand in Camp Morton made a dash for liberty. They were encouraged to do this by the fact that nearly one half of the guard force had been withdrawn on Saturday by Gov. Morton and sent into Kentucky to sid Gen. Boyle, learning only about, had the untul number of them sattlets, had the untul number of them sattlets of the standing the prisoners were killed outrigut, and a number severely wounded, some of whom will die. Several were receptared to day, and scouts are on the track of the rest. Three companies of State militia arrived to day, and several hundred more will be here to morrow, and then an additional force of 400 of the old guard, who are well drilled and equipped, will be sent to Kentucky.

The Navy Department has received dispatches, string that Lieutenath Commanding Braine, recently picked up at sea in an open boot eight contrabands from Little River Linky, South Carolina, from whom information was obtained that two chooners were preparing to run the blockade, laden with cotton and turpentine, and that the eage was already in the warshouse near the whorf, ready for shipment. Capt. Glesson ordered an expedition fitted out, consisting of an armed boat from each vessel, commanded by Lieuta Braine and Bruce. The town was found deserted. The schooner at the wharf was not considered worth the trouble of bringing away. They found at the wharf and warchouses two hundred barrels of tarpen ins, sixty bales of cotton, and fifty-three barrels of resin, the whole of which was destroyed by fire, valued at about $50,000.

He would fight until the last, and periah with his entire command before they would give up their position. Hyppily Licut. Col. Farrow relieved them, and together the two forces put the enemy to flight. Not knowing the force the enemy might water during the whole time, excepting little they could carry in their canteens the river, this was a pretty hard and fair Sunday's job.

GEN. PITCH RETALIATING. It will be recollected that in a recent letter I stated that Gen. Capt. Wilson McGunnegle, commander of the naval force at Memphis, and chief officer of the gunboat St. Louis, has asked to be relieved from active service, from ill health. Should his desires be satisfied, he will return to St. Louis, there to complete the labor he has an well commenced in fleishing some gunboats on the stocks in that city. The captair's health is feeble, and his late rough experiences in the White River country have had their effect in readering his disease—that of the lungs—comewhat more severe than before he left. Although this service will lose the aid of one of its most able, most daring, chivalric and gentlemanly officers, in acceding to the captain's wish; and although his officers and crew—who love him as a brother—will dread separation, it is to be hoped, to the rad that his life may be spared, that the request of Capt. McGunegle may be complied with immediately by the naval anthorities.

Vicksuune, July 10, 1862 Since my last, written on the 5th almost nothing has been done at this place. We Bo-hemians go down every day to the point opposite Vicksburg, and look across at the desert-ed city, in which we see no change, no signs of life, except the strengthening of the rebel positions above and below the town by the throwing up of a few new earthworks. Even this seems to be done by unseen hands, for mehow we never catch the rebels at the work, and all that we have yet seen of the army of 20,000 that is reputed to be encamped in the suburbs, are the sentinels that pace slowly up and down the ramparts, just as they did a week ago when we first saw them. lid a week ago when we first saw them.

Two or three times during each day we hear,
he boom of a gun from the batteries at Vicksburg and the gauntlet in the shape of a sixty-four pound shot is flung down somewhere in the fleet to us : but the vessels-the Hartforn, the Richmond, the Iroquois and the rest—only move up a little, so as to be out of range until the rebels shall discover their position, and so oblige them to move again, for the position of this upper fleet as related to Vicksburg is exactly as it was at Fort Pillow, having the wood-ed point between us and the enemy, which obstructs their view. But, as I said before, to this gage of battle thrown down our four hundred guns and mortars make no reply the vessels are as motionless and as effect as if they were laid up "in ordinary," and to diy we hear from reliable authority that all of mouth of the river and the place to resume the siege except the foctors, which goes to Fortress The destination of the mortar school known, some say Mobile, and Charleston. A congressional "korkus" is a peculiar in stitution. When assembled to nominaje can didates for speaker, clerk, doorkeeper, see duates for speaker, ciers, ucorsceper, ser-geant-st-arms, postimater, pages, apple peddlers, paste keeper, etc., it is plainly in the exercise of its proper functions. There have been three or four Border State caucuses, and one "conser-vative" caucus, each and all having the same vative" caucas, each and all having the same end, namely, confusion, bad blood and hard swearing. Not to be behind in anything of the gay and festive order, the Republicans have tried their hands at the business, and have rather taken the palm for the merits which chiefly distinguish your true cancas. At the first one of the recent series, Sevens of Pennsylvania and Kellogg of Illinois had a set-to, which would have delighted Tamm my Hall in its best days. The culmination of the cancus, however, book place last night, and it seems to have one good effect, viz: to disgut all decent men with the practice. To whatever of reason and justice sensible men have to justify this alliance, I unbestatingly add the testimony of a quarter of a year's experience in our Peninsular war, that it is interly impossible for us to subdue the rebels, without an alliance with their slaves. We demonstrated before Manasas that we needed the sid of the slaves. The history of war does not present an example of such chronic ignorance of the enemy's strength and movements as we caused stold under for six months, within ten miles of the foe. Ween they began to eracute a cornfleid, which only our thick ignorance had converted into a Sevastopol, we knew nothing of it. The Heorganization of the National Supreme Court.

[Washington Dispatch, July 16, to the N. Y. Trib.]

The bill reorganizing the Supreme Court passed both branches of Congress yesterday, and only lacks the President's signature to become a law. It constitutes Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkanasa, Texas, and Louisiana, Judge Catron's Creuit; Indiana and Ohio, Judge Swayne's Circuit; Indiana and Ohio, Judge Swayne's Circuit; Indiana Michigan, the Eigoth; and Mimmesota, Iowa, Michigan, the Eigoth; and Mimpertan, and Michigan, the Eigoth; and Mimpertan, and Michigan, the Eigoth of the Judges are to be appointed.

The length of time during which this bill has been under consideration, the importance attached to the question, whether this State should go with that or with the other, are principally due to a cause which has not crepted out in the discussion. Three candidates for the new Mulgeships had been sauged, to the appointment of each of whom there are, while it evident to every one name that ashe is intended for a privateer. Still I fear there will not be evidence enough to condenn her. Capt. Mr. Jenks, in his opening argument to the jury, narrated the facts in the case as he should prove them, without indulging in any unnecessary tuncombe. They were substantially as we have before published them.

Mr. Asay lannehed out with a fiamling distribe. The statements of the prosecutor were off false. He (Asay) was a Republican, and always voted the ticket when there were hon-cat men's names on it. His client was a peace-iul man, deserving of particular commenda-tion. He had come to Chicago to seek bread for his little ones. Some men under these circumstances would have stolen, but he pre-ferred to be an honest man. On Monday the prosecutor entered the omulous smoking. He was requested to get out, but refused, and a tussic ensued. In protecting the negro the Sheriff was trying to force the negro down the throats of the people. Such conduct was im-politic at this time. The whole thing was a plan of politicians to get up a hubbub in Chicago.

It is another noticeable feature of this volume, that the incidents so dramatically drawn are true. They did not transpire in the order given, and occupied a wider range of time in their occurrence, but all of them came, at different times, under the suthor's observance. There is abundant material in the book to confirm this even if the high haracter of the writer admitted of its que tion. The portraits are original. They bear the marks of life in every line.

Apart from the argumentative character of the book and the subject which forms its heavy. groundwork, a subject which to-day is knock-ing in thunder tones at our national threshold solution, the literary character of the book must attract attention. In execution i is thoroughly dramatic. Its portraits are drawn with a bold hand and stand out stereoscepic-ally. The unity of the work is preserved throughout and framed in glowing descriptions and passages of power and pathos rare-ly equalled. It should be in the hands of an. Where thought that some steps should be eaken to raise money.

Judge Manierre thought there was no coasion for despondency in view of th preent condition of affairs. Masters would peedly be brought around all right.

Mr. Larned did not echo the feeling of confident of the suppression or the recentive than now. Congrees had taken hold of the work in the right spirit. There was to be no more of the rose-water policy. Hereafter every energy of the government, and every ary energy of the gov

We are glad to learn that a movement is on foot for another regiment in this district under the new call for troops. The parties left last night for Springdeld to see Gov. Yates, and will, without doubt, get the required authority. We are not at liberty to state names at present; but this much we can say: One of the partice (Colonel to be) has seen two years service in the regular army; and the (Lient. Colonel to be) is a well known lawyer in this city. We know the men, and we know that such men can raise a regiment that will be a credit to Northern Illinois.
